

Candy Cadet was established in 2020 by Wyatt Willburn at the age of 12 with the help of his 11-year-old brother Wesley and his family. Wyatt was a young aspiring entrepreneur who would become one of the original pioneers and trailblazers of the Freeze Dried Candy e-commerce Industry, by venturing into uncharted territory experimenting with every candy he could imagine with the freeze dryer his mother had gotten for her food manufacturing company and to make camping trip meals.

He would take freeze dried Skittles to school and come home with hundreds of dollars each week from his sales of Skittles by the ounce. Before long he had a little black book he'd carry around with orders and checks stuffed inside, (yes he kind of looked like some kind of dealer.)

His mother would ask "Who pays with checks?" He'd answer, "The teachers and principal." Wyatt armed with a curious mind and entrepreneurial spirit decided he wanted to turn this idea into a business and his parents would only entertain the idea if he worked on a business plan and used his profits to buy his own machine which he did. Within months Wyatt had started an Etsy page where he was selling faster than he could make the products.

He was experimenting with freeze drying all kinds of candies and purchased 3 more machines in the first two months, followed by another 4 that same year.

As a family the Willburn's decided to move into a bigger facility where both Wyatt and his mother's businesses could share a larger commercial production space.

Over the last few years the company has grown and expanded at a pace hard to keep up with at times but exciting none the less. Wyatt is now 16 and continues to run his business with multiple employees and his mother handling the wholesale side of the business.

(He's still in school remember.)

What is Freeze Drying? Freeze Drying is the process of putting food (or candy) into a machine that freezes the food and then through sublimation and pulling the item into a deep vacuum removes all moisture. The machine then heats the food back up to dry and during this part of the process, because candy is mostly sugar, it expands/explodes into the joyous delightful confection we produce for you.
